

BCMS creates cards for orphans in Peru

By Sloan Cooper

Special to My Life

Posted December 1, 2007

Briarcrest Christian Middle School (BCMS) students got into the Christmas spirit early this year. The sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade students have been making cards for the Orphanos Foundation in hopes of brightening the holiday for orphans in Peru. The organization sends hundreds of cards each year to children in orphanages throughout South America. The cards and a warm meal are often all the children receive for Christmas.

Emily Guenther (left), Mary-Elizabeth Goodman, Harrison Hollingsworth, Sean Touhy, Clayton Wall, Grey Martin and Jimmy German are some of the students at Briarcrest Christian Middle School who have been making cards for the Orphanos Foundation in hopes of brightening the holiday for orphans in Peru.

BCMS students are taking their free time during an activity period to create cards. Their cards will be hand delivered this year to a group in Chilca, at the base of the Andes Mountains. The area was recently hit by an earthquake.

For more information about Orphanos Foundation, visit orphanos.org.

Sloan Cooper is the art instructor for Briarcrest Middle School